

POETRY.

TO THE FIRST SPRING BIRD.

BY MRS. L. H. SIGOURNEY.

Blue Bird! on yon leafless tree,
Dost thou carol thus to me,
"Spring is coming!—Spring is here!"
Say'st thou so, my birdie dear?
What is that in misty shroud,
Stealing from the darkened cloud?
Snow!—my friend—it gathers round
Deeply o'er the whitened ground—
Still thou singest, blithe and clear,
"Spring is coming!—Spring is here!"

Strik'st thou not too bold a strain?
Winds are piping o'er the plain,
Clouds are sweeping o'er the sky
With a black and threatening eye,
Urchins, by the frozen rill,
Wrap their mantles closer still,
Yon poor man, with doublet old,
Doth he shiver at the cold?
Hast he not a nose of blue?
Tell me, birdling, tell me true.

Spring's a maid of mirth and glee,
Rosy wreaths and revelry—
Hast thou would'st some winged love
To a nest in verdant grove?
Sung to her, of greenwood bower,
Sunny skies that never lower?
Lured her with thy promise fair,
Of a lot that knows no care?
Prythee, lo, in coat of blue,
Though a lover—tell her true.

Ask her if, when storms are long,
She can sing a cheerful song—
When the rude winds rock the tree,
If she'll closer cling to thee—
Then the blasts that sweep the sky
Unappal'd shall pass thee by—
Though thy curtain'd chamber show
Siftings of untimely snow,
Warm and glad thy heart shall be,
Love shall make it Spring for thee.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Quaker Woman's Sermon.—Dr. Friends: There are three things I very much wonder at; the first is, that children should be so foolish as to throw up stones, bricks, and clubs into fruit trees to knock down fruit; if they would let it alone it would fall itself. The second is that men should be so foolish and even so wicked as to go to war and kill one another; if they would only let one another alone, they would die of themselves; and the third and last thing that I wonder at, is, that young men should be so unwise as to go after the young women; if they would only stay at home the young women would come after them.

Very Affected.—A farmer "going to get his grist ground at a mill, borrowed a bag of one of his neighbors. The poor man was somehow or other knocked into the water by the water-wheel, and the bag went with him. He was drowned; and when the melancholy news was brought to his wife, she exclaimed, "my gracious! what a fuss there'll be now about that bag."

"Are you guilty, or not guilty?" said the clerk of arraigns to a prisoner the other day? "and sure now," said Pat, "what are ye put there for, but till find that out."

Larning.—A country apothecary said that Jefferson was a true patriot. For after saving his country, he retired, like Cincinnatus, to "optum cum digitalis!"

Real Life.—"Well wife, has the paper come yet?" "Yes, husband, and a bill came with it for one year's subscription." "Ahem! well, what kind of a paper have they got to-day, hey, pretty tolerable—any thing new?" "Oh yes, got a glorious paper! It's chock full of shocking accidents, elopements, robberies, murders, and suicides, and homicides, and parricides, and—besides there is a good love story on the first page, and a lot of deaths and marriages. I've read it through and through. Shall I go and fetch it for you?" "Never mind now, wife—but what did you say in the first instance, a bill came with it?" "Yes, husband, a bill; it is in the upper drawer." "That is the most important item in the paper, wife; I'll sit right down and forward the money, and then—I'll read the paper."

Nine!—Not the nine muses, dear reader; but the matter-of-fact fellow, number 9. This number 9, after all, is not without poetry and romance. Indeed, sometimes he is a very comical rhyming character, and appears to delight in performing half-a-dozen parts in one piece on the same stage. It may be known to every learned Theban that all the products of the figure 9 produce the same result by addition of the combinations. For instance:

9 9 9 9 9 9 9 9 9 9
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

18 27 36 45 54 63 72 81

Add up any of the above results and it will produce the primitive number—9.

It will also be seen that the products are formed by the transposition of the figures; as for instance beginning at contrary ends:

81, 18, 72, 27, &c.

No. 9 is one of those great characters who can go through all the changes of life and business, and still preserve its unity and integrity.

Parallel of the Sexes.—Man is strong—Woman is beautiful. Man is daring and confident—Woman is diffident and unassuming. Man is great in action—Woman at home. Man talks to convince—Woman to persuade and please. Man has a rugged heart—Woman relieves it. Man has science—Woman taste. Man has judgment—Woman sensibility. Man is a being of justice—Woman of mercy.

To the Ladies.—A good wife should be like three things; which three things she should not be like.

I. She should be like a snail to keep within her own doors, but she should not be like a snail to put every thing she has upon her back.

II. She should be like an Echo, to speak when spoken to—but she should not be like an Echo, to have the last word.

III. She should be like a Town clock always to keep time and regularity—but she should not be like a town clock to speak so loud that all the town may hear her.

A Green Horn from the country stepped into a menagerie, to view the beasts, birds, and creeping things congregated, among which an orang outang particularly struck his attention. Several gentlemen were conversing about the animal, one of whom expressed the opinion that it was a lower order of the human species. Jonathan did not like this idea, and striding up to the gentlemen, expressed his contempt for it thus:—"Pooh! pooh! he's no more human species than I be!"

Retort.—A little lawyer appearing as evidence in one of the courts, was asked by a gigantic counsellor what profession he was of, having replied he was an attorney. "You a lawyer?" said Brief, "why I can put you in my pocket!" "Very likely you may," rejoined the other, "and if you do, you will have more law in your pocket than you ever had in your head."

How to get a good one.—An Irishman was once brought up before the magistrates for marrying six wives. The magistrates asked him how he could be so hardened a villain? "Please your worship," says Paddy, "I was trying to get a good one."

AGRICULTURAL.

MANURING WITH ROTTEN LOGS AND BRUSH.

[Correspondence of the Farmer's Register.] Upon the testimony of some of the most respectable and veritable gentlemen of Halifax county, Virginia, I shall proceed to give you an account of the remarkable effects of a new and rare manure, as exhibited by an experiment in that county, a few years since. The manure above alluded to, is only rare as to the manner of its application, for in old Virginia it very much abounded. The experiment was as follows: A gentleman cut down the pine growth which had covered a piece of land, exhausted and turned out of cultivation by his father or grand father. As is usual, he suffered the logs and brush to lie upon the land the first summer. In the fall and winter succeeding, he commenced his preparations for a crop of corn, by running two strokes with a large two-horse plough in the same furrow, one turning to the right, and one to the left. This trench thus made, was filled with the logs and brush of the pine trees next convenient to it, which cleared a place for the second furrow; and so on, until this log and brush material was all consumed. With this preparation he passed over half the land. The balance was simply flushed with the two horse plough, and well manured from the stable and farm pen. The crop grown on the beds, manured in the hill with pine logs and brush, was not only the best corn of the two, but was unusually rich in its growth, and heavy in its production. The owner of the corn was induced, from its remarkably luxuriant appearance, to pull up one of the logs, during the growing of the crop, to see how it was that such vigor was imparted to it; he found the countless number of little thread-like roots, which mainly contribute to the supply of the vegetable, to have perforated the water-soaked and partly decayed trunks and limbs of the pine trees, buried below.

Here, Mr. Editor, is a fountain of manure, which, in its general diffusion through our State, and in its practical good effects, as demonstrated above, bids fair to rival the boasted marl beds of lower Virginia; and that which has been regarded as an indication of poverty and decay in our lands, may be made the instrument of their restoration and recovery. Your obedient servant,

T. CARRINGTON.

ORCHARD GRASS. This grass is worthy of being cultivated on account of its uncommon luxuriance. Horses, cows, and sheep, eat it readily, and it is valuable on account of its excellent after-feed. It affords an abundant crop, springs early, and grows fast, makes excellent hay, and yields an abundance of seed, which is not easily shaken out. It is a hardy grass, found highly useful in most loamy soils, and thriving under the shade of trees. It comes early, is soon matured, and continues green until late in the season as clover does. If intended for fodder, it should be cut while young and tender.

The Main (s) Question!—War-Like Preparations for the Spring Campaign!

S. J. SYLVESTER avows his determination to maintain hostilities against the combined powers of Indigence, Misfortune and Ill-Luck, and therefore begs to announce to his patrons and friends that his army consists of the following Magnificent Schemes! And to enable him to accomplish his purposes more effectually, he has procured the services of the famous and unrivalled PLUTUS as his Generalissimo, who will take the command in person, with a full and settled design of waging war to the blade, and from the blade to the hilt—there having heretofore been no boundary to his conquests! His grand army consists of an advanced guard of $80,000!

And the big battle "come off" on the 20th of April next, when the "spoils" will be divided among the victors! Also a rear guard of TV PRIZES OF THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, and a reserve of Forty thousand Dollars, besides many other bodies of CAPITAL troops. In order to sustain S. J. SYLVESTER in carrying out his measures with complete success, he solicits early application from all who desire to obtain commands in any of the above armies—recommending the eighty thousand dollars as the most important, and in which the most bravery can be displayed and more honors awarded—and if early in the field, and sufficient ability shown, will no doubt put the army itself in possession after the day is won.

All communications respecting the forthcoming stirring events, to be carefully addressed to S. J. SYLVESTER, 130 Broadway, and 22 Wall-st. N. Y.
